1-4 Family Dwelling Product (All States Except CT, GA, IL, IN, MI, MN, OH, PA, SC and VA)

As a rental dwelling owner, do you have the right coverage?

- ▶ A guest is leaving your tenant-occupied dwelling. The guest trips over an uplifted section of sidewalk on your property and sustains a broken ankle, resulting in a paid loss of $4,000.
- ▶ On a cool fall morning, your tenant turns on the heat. The furnace generates a “puff back” of smoke that causes smoke and soot damage to the furniture, walls and carpeting, resulting in a paid loss of $1,397.
- ▶ Your tenant has a history of tossing cigarettes out at a second story window. A smoldering cigarette lands on the first floor porch roof and it ignites, causing in extensive damage to the exterior, smoke and water damage to the interior, and resulting in a paid loss of $33,349.
- ▶ A tenant has been behind on rent payments and the dwelling owner is eager to make the unit available to a paying tenant. The dwelling owner renders the unit uninhabitable by turning off the heat and refusing to make repairs to leaky plumbing. The tenant sues. The court finds that the dwelling owner executed an unlawful eviction, resulting in a paid loss of $35,000.
