DO YOU RUN A BUSINESS OUT OF YOUR HOME OR HAVE A HOBBY THAT EARNS INCOME?

Two out of every three people who run a business or hobby out of the home do NOT have adequate insurance. Most homeowners policies are not designed to cover losses from the business

Consider the following that may not be covered by a homeowners policy:

A DJ at a birthday party has $4,500 of sound equipment stolen

A photographer forgets to use the flash and misses most of the pictures at the wedding reception. The bride and groom sue the photographer for $15,000.

A representative for Pampered Chef has $2,700 of inventory in their home. The inventory is destroyed when a fire damages the home.

A teacher tutors children in math throughout the year. A student trips and falls at the teacher's home resulting in injuries. The parents sue the teacher for $42,000.

A person sells crafts at regional craft shows throughout the year. An attendee slips over the display and falls into the neighboring booth. The attendee has $10,000 in injuries and the person in the next booth has $3,500 in damaged inventory.

Claire has a table for her Rodan + Fields business at the local craft fair. Someone stole some of her inventory while she had her back turned. USLI would respond under the business personal property off-premises limit.

A fire occurs at your home and damages your $7,500 LuLaRoe inventory. Your homeowners policy will exclude coverage because the inventory is business personal property, but a USLI policy provides up to $100,000 for on-premises business personal property.

A Home Based Business policy can provide you with the right coverage. With average rates of $300, you cannot afford not to insure your business!
